

QUEEN TAKES BOOK

2025 READING CHALLENGE

Year-long: Breeze Through a Behemoth

Is there a book that you've always wanted to read, but just haven't found the time or motivation? Consider this your sign: it's time.

Katie is going to read East of Eden by John Steinbeck and Amelia is going to read The Priory of the Orange Tree by Samantha Shannon. Join either of them or choose a behemoth of your own!

Book Pick: _____

February: A Short Month for Short Stories

Read a short story or a collection of short stories.

Book Pick: _____

March: Read Me, I'm Irish!

Read a book somehow connected to Ireland: maybe it's set there, maybe the author is Irish, maybe there's a leprechaun in it.

Book Pick: _____

April: April Fool's Day

Pick a book inspired by April Fool's Day. It can be a funny essay collection or a book that you normally wouldn't read. (Get it? You're "fooling" yourself?) Think outside the box!

Book Pick: _____

May: It's Gonna Be May

Read a book related to music.

Book Pick: _____

June: Myths and Retellings

Read a book that's a retelling or inspired by a myth.

Book Pick: _____

July: Where's Waldo?

Everyone always asks "Where's Waldo?" but no one ever asks "How's Waldo?" What does "Where's Waldo?" mean to you?

Book Pick: _____

August: Escape the Heat

Read a short story or a collection of short stories.

Book Pick: _____

September: Better Than School

Reclaim your education by reading a book about a new topic that always interested you, something you've never heard of before, or whatever feels right to you.

Book Pick: _____

October: Spooky Season!

Read a book that encompasses what "spooky season" means to you.

Book Pick: _____

November: Debut Authors

November is for the writers, so join us in supporting authors that made their debut this year!
